I initially chose "I wandered lonely as a cloud" because when I read it flowed and I really enjoyed the rhythm. The more I read it the symbolism struck me. Then when I decided it was the poem I wanted to analyze the true depth of the poem unfolded before me. In fact working on this poem I myself had a very similar moment that the author had looking on the daffodils. I felt the world of poetry open up before me. I found myself exhilarated and moved on a deep level. I appreciated poetry before this paper, but now I find myself ravenous for more.
